“At our recent ceremony, I remarked to our church that David has treated us as if we were the only job he had. He has proven himself to be quick to reply to our questions, to be ready to point to potential ways to save money, and to be prepared to tell us when our ideas weren't necessarily what would be best for the project. Although he displays tremendous pride and ownership of his work, there is no doubt he realizes this is ultimately our project. David's humility has fostered a definite sense of unity of purpose in our building committee, reminding each of us that this project is not about us.”
